

I live on the Westside and dig the waves. My 5-year old is my biggest inspiration. She teaches me how to see beautiful things in life that most adults over look. I like color. I like icons and old things. When I was a kid, I drew. I played with clay in high school and college and working hot glass use to be fun. I travel here and there. I like to experiment with different art material and take advantage of my graphic design skills when creating art. My goals are simple, create art and enjoy the ride, maybe do something no one has done before. That would be really cool.
